Moody Landscapes: Drawing & Mixed Media Masterclass

While you can learn a lot online, nothing compares to experiencing art live. Join this two-day workshop packed with practical techniques and demonstrations using charcoal, ink, and conté. You will watch exactly how materials are mixed, layered, and applied, gaining an immediate understanding you just cannot get through a screen. It is perfect for both beginners and experienced artists looking to bring greater expression to their work.

Discover how to create moody, atmospheric landscapes using charcoal, ink, and conté in this two-day workshop. You'll learn special techniques to bring greater expression and sensitivity to your artwork, exploring innovative ways to capture mood and texture. Some prior drawing experience is recommended, though not essential in this class, which offers personalized tuition in a supportive environment.

This workshop is packed with practical techniques and live demonstrations. You'll see exactly how to use graphite, ink, charcoal, pastels, and conté to create expressive, dynamic landscape drawings and mixed-media artworks.

While you can certainly learn a lot online these days, there is nothing quite like experiencing it live and in real time. Seeing in person how materials are mixed, layered, and applied to paper, canvas, or board is the real gamechanger. It gives you an immediate, deep understanding of the process that you just can't replicate through a screen.

Throughout the weekend, you will get plenty of individual guidance to help you navigate your drawings, with a strong focus on composition, line variety, tone, and form. By the end of the workshop, you will leave with a beautiful range of your own landscape and mixed-media artworks, equipped with new techniques and a rich understanding of materials to carry forward into your own art practice.
